PRODUCE MARKETS.

Local Fruit, Vegetable, Poultry,
Egg and Butter Quotations.St. Louis, Saturday, May 5, 1900.
The produce market was generally quiet and unchanged. On account of the heavy reduction the merchants' exchange was closed, and it was a regular holding market on the stock.

Potatoes were dull and weak, as there was almost no demand. Choice medium white potatoes were available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.

Onions were dull and unchanged. There was a limited demand for choice onions, which were available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.

Garlic onions were dull and plentiful. There was a limited demand for choice onions, which were available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.

Carrots were dull and unchanged. There was a limited demand for choice carrots, which were available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.

Pears were dull and unchanged. There was a limited demand for choice pears, which were available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.

Apples were quiet and unchanged, as the demand was light and the market was steady. Apples were moderate, but good rather strong.

Oranges were dull and unchanged. There was a limited demand for choice oranges, which were available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.

Lemons were dull and unchanged. There was a limited demand for choice lemons, which were available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.

Grapefruit was quiet and unchanged. There was a limited demand for choice grapefruit, which was available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.

Pineapple was quiet and unchanged. There was a limited demand for choice pineapples, which were available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.

Peaches were dull and unchanged. There was a limited demand for choice peaches, which were available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.

Pears were dull and nominal, as the season is practically over. Receipts were light, and quality, and demand quiet.

Wool continued to hold its own, but prices were well sustained, although very little demand was shown.

Cotton was good and receipts light.

All kinds of early vegetables were plentiful and the market was steady.

Apples were quiet and unchanged, as the demand was light and the market was steady.

Oranges were dull and the market was steady.

Lemons were also in good demand, with light offerings. The market was firm.

Strawberries were weak and low, as receipts were light, and the market was steady.

Several car loads were dumped on the market and price suffered in consequence. The demand was from the local market.

New onions were quiet and unchanged. There was a limited demand for choice onions, which were available at 10c per bushel, but common mixed and inferior stocks were sold at 8c per bushel.
